About The Gallery

The Prichard Art Gallery is an outreach facility of the University of Idaho College of Letters, Arts and Social Sciences. Established in 1982, the gallery is located in downtown Moscow and serves the community and the university with a year-round schedule of exhibitions. The gallery hosts 7 to 9 exhibitions annually and provides the community with a full spectrum of the arts, including fine arts, architecture and landscape architecture. Ceramics, photography, glass art, fine craft, computer art, folk art, and installation art are exhibited along with the traditional arts, painting and sculpture. This past year the gallery exhibited the work of 42 professional artists.

The University of Idaho Prichard Art Gallery serves over 13,000 visitors annually, including approximately 2,000 students from area and regional schools. Through exhibition programming, outreach, and related educational programming, the gallery is dedicated to the cultural enrichment of the university community, the Palouse, the State of Idaho, and the Northwest region. The gallery's docent program conducts guided tours for elementary and secondary school students and the gallery provides a forum for lectures, presentations, and panel discussions.
